

Trauma & Addiction

February 5, 2020 | 9:00 am - 4:30 pm

Trauma and addiction are inextricably linked: From seeing addiction as a disease we are now moving to understanding it as a trauma response.

In this full-day training, you will gain tools for a trauma and resiliency focused approach for working with people who experience the symptoms of addiction. Participants will also deepen their understanding of the connection between addictive behaviors and how the body responds to trauma.

This training will cover:

- Trauma, addiction, and the brain
- The trauma responses underlying addiction
- Addiction as a 'solution'
- How addiction affects the parent/child relationship
- Tools for building resilience
